COMMITTEE MAY TAKE AMERICAN PLANS FOR NAVY

Hughes Would Make Plan
So Generous No Nation
Could Reject.

TO REMEDY FIRST PLAN

With Matter in Charge of Naval Experts, U. S. May Fight Any Changes.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—A detailed statement regarding China's interest and her attitude on far eastern questions was made today by Minister Sze at the first meeting of the committee of Pacific and far eastern questions.

No program for consideration of far eastern questions was agreed upon but the heads of the delegations of the nine powers forming the committee were to meet later in the day to frame a manner of procedure.

There was no response from the Japanese after China had presented her view of the situation and although some general discussion developed, all of the other national representatives reserved a detailed statement of their views for a later presentation.

Indications were that the first attempt to get down to cases would be made in the meeting of the heads of nations later in the day.

Maintenance of the open door policy in China was said to have been urged vigorously by Sinister Sze, who also spoke strongly for abolition of secret treaties affecting China and urged that hereafter all such treaties between the powers be made public.

The question of disposing of the province of Shantung was not brought up.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Problems of the far east whose solution is adjuged an integral part of the question of armaments, took the center of attention at the armament conference today while the plans for the reduction of naval establishments was passing through a period of technical examination at the hands of a committee of experts.

For the first time the delegates of the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy, China, Belgium, Portugal, and the Netherlands acting as a committee of the whole on the far eastern questions, assembled for preliminary discussion and later to make plans for procedure.

In contrast to the manner in which the conferees started the armaments problems on its opening day, the representatives of the powers went into today's committee meeting waiting on one another to speak first about the intricate question that long has troubled the relation in the Pacific and orient.

Of course every nation had a rather concrete idea of the principle it means to present, once the negotiations became general. No one seems anxious to break the ice.

The attitude of the United States is that the interest of this government is not nearly so directly in the far eastern situation as it was in the question of armaments.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The first meeting of the technical committee to which the armament program of the American delegation was referred yesterday, adjourned at noon today not to resume until tomorrow. Various phases of the American plan were taken under consideration by the naval experts for each power preparatory to furnishing complete plans later.

As the technical experts of the "big five" sat down to work over details of the naval reduction proposal there were indications that the plan presented by the American delegation would be proposed.

No authoritative pronouncement was made, but there were indications that the most vital elements of the plan—the naval replacement scheme—had been formed by four American delegates all civilians, the original scheme suggested by the American naval advisors having been regarded as probably unacceptable to Great Britain and Japan.

It was the wish of Secretary Hughes and his colleagues to propose a program so generous to the other two powers that there would be every reason to expect its acceptance as evidence of America's good faith.

Now that the matter is back in naval experts hands, it seems possible that the original position of the American advisors would tend to stiffen their opposition to any modification of the American proposals they may regard as disadvantageous to the United States.

MEN OUTNUMBER GIRLS AT STATE UNIVERSITY NOW

NORMAN, Nov. 16.—(Special)—Total enrollment figures at the University of Oklahoma show 819 more men students than women. O. U. now has 3,013 students, 1,916 of whom are men while 1,097 are women. This is a proportion of 64 men to every 36 women, almost 2 to 1.

By classes the men and women are divided as follows: freshmen, 858; men, 372 women, total 1,230; sophomores, 396 men, 256 women, total 625; juniors, 311 men and 188 women, total 486; seniors, 284 men and 171 women, a total of 455 candidates for degrees. The remainder of the student body is composed of unclassified and graduate students.

Although the percentage of women students is small this year it is larger than last year when so many men who had been kept out because of the war returned to school. The division of students by sex last year was in the proportion of 70 to 30, the men leading.

REGISTRATION TO START TOMORROW

New Voters of County May Not Materially Increase
Total of Last Election.

Registration of new voters and those who have changed their precinct since the last general election in the county will open Thursday morning in every voting place over Pontotoc county preparatory to holding an $880,000 county and township bond election Dec. 6, the issue being one proposed for the betterment of roads and the building of bridges and culverts.

Not a heavy run in registration is expected anywhere and the majority of those to be enrolled, it is believed, are voters who have moved from their old precincts.

No estimates are possible at this time, election authorities said today, as to the number who will be included in the coming registration which will last ten days. Books will close on Saturday night, November 26, exactly ten days before county voters go to the polls to express their opinion on the road bonds.

A total of 6,267 persons voted in the last general election in Pontotoc county, according to official figures compiled by the election board but in spite of a slight increase in the number of persons who will be eligible to ballot on the bonds, this number is not expected to materially increase. It is even thought possible that the number of votes cast December 6 will not reach the last election totals despite the fact that all persons eligible have been urged to go to the polls.

City registers and places to register were given out today as follows:

- Ward 1, Ada—Somer Jones, Fire Station.
- Ward 2, Ada—T. O. Collins, Hope Conn Drug Store.
- Ward 3, Ada—G. T. Lancaster, 210 West Main.
- Ward 4, Ada—Davidson Grocery, South Townsend.
- Capital Hill—P. A. Norris, First National Bank.

FAMOUS BANDIT CAUGHT AT PHOENIX, ARIZONA

(By the Associated Press)

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 16.—A bandit captured here last night at the Santa Fe station following an attempt to rob a mail car, was identified by finger prints today as Roy Gardner, who recently escaped from the federal prison at McNeil Island.

According to police, Gardner admitted his identity.

Police officials also attempted to identify the prisoner as Gardner by a wound in the leg which he was reported to have received from the gun of a guard when he escaped from McNeil Island. The police were unable to find the wound and the prisoner maintained that none of the shots fired by the guards struck him.

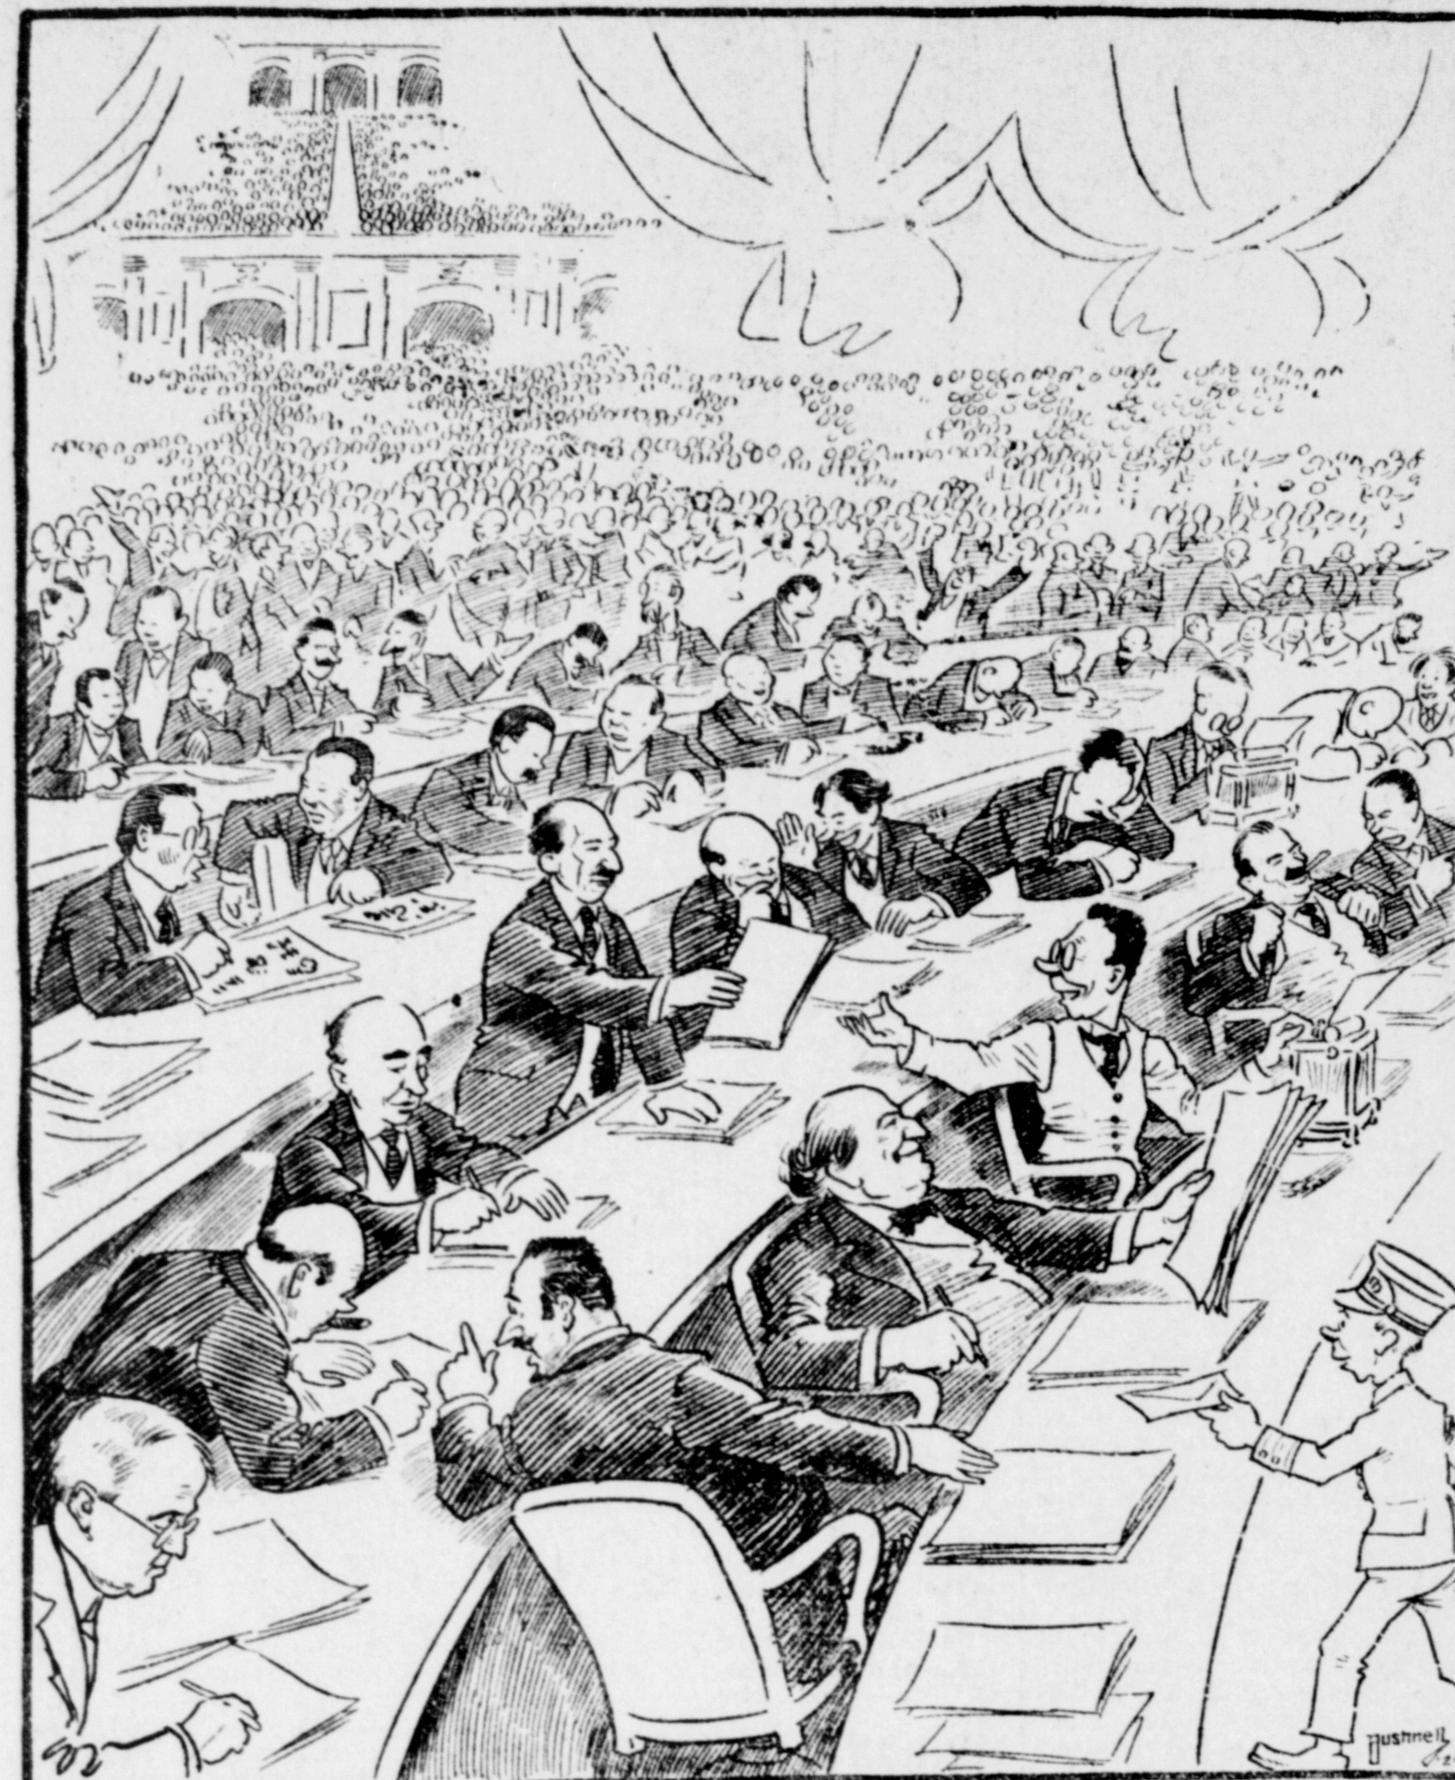

Police this morning said that while there was nothing of unusual value in the mail on board the car attacked last night, a local bank planned a shipment of $15,000 from here today. They believe the robber had been "tipped off" to the shipment but got the wrong train.

"GENTLEMEN OF THE PRESS" IN ACTION AT ARMS CONFERENCE

CITY PLANS TO FENCE BYRD MILL SPRING TO KEEP OUT IMPURITIES

Following an inspection of the Byrd's Mill spring, from which the city of Ada gets its entire water supply, it was decided by the city commissioners today that a fence, strong enough to exclude both humans and animals, is needed to insure the absolute purity of the water. City Health Officer S. P. Ross and Mayor Kitchens were among those who inspected the spring yesterday afternoon.

Instructions were given out today for the construction of the fence without delay. No definite plans had been adopted this morning as to the kind of fence to be built, but it was strongly emphasized that a permanent fence would be required. At present the spring is open and accessible to all visitors. A fence will afford the necessary exclusion of any probable impurities.

TWO MORE SCRAPS FOR SOONER TEAM AS SEASON WANES

NORMAN, Nov. 16.—(Special)—Two more gridiron clashes lie between the University of Oklahoma football squad and the 1921 curtain, the Kansas Aggies at Manhattan, Kan., this week and Rice Institute at Houston, Tex., Thanksgiving Day.

Ben G. Owen, Sooner director of athletics and head coach, has but three more afternoons in which to scrimmage his band of Sooners for these two games. The Oklahomans leave for Manhattan Thursday noon which gives Owen two afternoons this week to work his men. They return from Manhattan Sunday night, November 20, and entrain Tuesday afternoon for Houston which allows the Sooners but one afternoon on home soil before the close of the season on Thursday, November 24.

According to police, Gardner admitted his identity.

Police officials also attempted to identify the prisoner as Gardner by a wound in the leg which he was reported to have received from the gun of a guard when he escaped from McNeil Island. The police were unable to find the wound and the prisoner maintained that none of the shots fired by the guards struck him.

HAY BARNS SWEPT BY FLAMES TODAY

Fire Bugs Are Suspected of Burning 23,000 Bales of Stored Hay.

Pontotoc county Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, in session tonight at the Masonic hall, will lay first plans for a movement to bring a Shrine ceremonial to Ada in January or April. The movement, although it has been started by the Pontotoc County Shrine club, will be participated in by Shriners all over the county, according to members.

In case a ceremonial is brought to Ada next spring, it will be made one of the biggest reunions of Nobles ever held in this section of the state, according to tentative arrangements. Ada lies in a neutral district between two temples, the India temple at Oklahoma City and the Bedouin temple at Muskogee. A big delegation of Nobles is expected here from each of these if the reunion is booked for Ada.

According to reports which reached Ada this morning, the Golightly barn, which is about half a mile from the other, was noticed burning about 7 o'clock last night. Efforts to check the flames were to no avail and the barn, valued at about $1,500 and 9,000 bales of hay, valued at about $4,000, were a total loss. This was partly covered by insurance.

About 1 o'clock this morning fire broke out in the Truax barn and consumed 14,000 bales of hay, valued at $6,000, and the barn which probably was worth $2,500. Both hay barns were covered with corrugated iron and the origin of the fires is laid to fire bugs. Dr. Truax is said to have suffered several losses from fires within the last few years. Whether or not his barn and hay were covered by insurance could be learned in Ada Wednesday morning.

Equipment for fighting the fires was practically negligible.

Members of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce were in session today with a representative of an investing company. Part of the morning and most of the afternoon has been spent in conference during which a discussion of probable plans for the construction of a branch line to connect with the Rock Island railroad at Asher was engaged in.

This line would pass through the heart of the Ada oil field, thus giving an outlet for the oil. A branch line from Ada to Asher has been considered several times before, the necessity of having to build a bridge over the South Canadian river being one of the chief causes for its not previously being done. With the discovery of oil however, it is believed that the project would prove to be a paying one.

No reports as to the outcome of this meeting could be obtained early this afternoon, although it was estimated that so far, the discussion was very favorable. It is expected that a more definite report of the result of the meeting will be obtainable for tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Ellis Loring Dresel of Boston was nominated today by President Harding to be charge d'affairs to Germany. Mr. Dresel has been American commissioner to Germany and is now in Berlin.

ROAD CAMP SMALLER
AS WINTER APPROACHES

The camp of the workers employed by the contracting company building the Ada-Allen road is considerably smaller today, since truck drivers and others have moved to town with the approach of winter. Only the force needed at the gravel pits and other workers is left at the camp according to reports. Good progress is being made on the road, and no serious delays have been encountered recently.

FATTY TOYS WITH HAT AS ATTORNEY CHOOSES JURYMEN

(By the Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Roscoe Arbuckle's trial entered its third day this morning with the jury nearing completion, and local interest in the case, as evidenced by the empty seats in the court room, wained.

After two days spent in examining 15 members of the venire, 11 of them, including five women, have been accepted tentatively.

The charge against Arbuckle grows out of the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, movie actress.

The defendant, wearing the same forlorn expression for the last two days, has fingered his felt hat, rolled paper wads and sat apparently in oblivion to what was transpiring, while attorneys wrangled over legal points and put lengthy questions to the prospective jurors.

In County Court

Complaint was filed in county court yesterday charging J. R. Richards and R. L. Richards with obtaining board by fraud.

With some of the most important preliminaries disposed of, county Red Cross officials announced themselves practically ready today to start actual plans for the annual Red Cross roll call in which it is hoped to raise a budget of sufficient size to keep alive the county organization for another year.

M. F. Manville, county head of the Red Cross, has been engaged with other civic enterprises this week but it was generally understood today that he was practically ready to start the roll call movement.

T. B. Blake was appointed county chairman and has made a provisional acceptance, stating that he was willing to serve in case merchants and others of the city get squarely behind the roll call and support it to the fullest extent possible.

A report received this afternoon from Purcell said the annual roll call there is almost over the top and will be rounded out before night.

Support that exceeded all anticipation was received by solicitors when they placed the Red Cross proposition before the citizens, it is reported.

Many soldier claims which are now being pushed by the Pontotoc County Red Cross argue against closing the office at this time, officials of the local organization said. Many service men are almost destitute and are actually depending upon the Red Cross to see that their claims for compensation for injuries resulting from war service get full and fair consideration.

Only Wednesday a former service man, his wife, and 8 year old daughter came into the Red Cross office here asking aid. Since he had been laid off from his job as brakeman, after his return from the army, he has had no permanent employment, the man declared and has taken his small family from one point to another trying to eke out a living.

CARRY ALL ON BACKS.

The father and mother carried all their possessions in small bundles on their backs.

A former service "buddy" of the unfortunate man met him here.

It was the first time the two had seen each other since they fought side by side on the Meuse-Argonne three months. The more fortunate veteran gave him all the money he could earn in chopping wood and hauling it to town. The men cut one load of wood, borrowed the farmer's wagon, brought the load to town and kept busy on the streets for a whole day but had to take it back at nightfall—unsold.

He had been a railway brakeman 11 years, the man said, in his story to the Red Cross, and is now able-bodied and willing to work at anything available. Mrs. Orville Sned, Red Cross secretary, is seeking employment for him or his wife.

Efforts of the county Red Cross

may also result in the release of a Pontotoc county soldier, now sentenced to five years in the federal penitentiary on a charge of desertion.

The man left his company at Fort Sill in 1918 to attend his wife who was sick here. He was not arrested until several months later

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE TENTH COMMANDMENT:—Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maid-servant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything that is thy neighbor's.—Exodus 20.17.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT?

It is a common saying that great events produce great men; that a crisis in the world is met by some individual or individuals who rank above the common man. Such men are pointed out as Cromwell in England, who arose to lead the armies of the rebellious and downtrodden taxpayers; Napoleon, who was called to lead the ill treated peasantry of France but who let vaulting ambition prove his ruin; Washington, who with ill fed and poorly clothed, untrained troops put to route the best men George III could hire; Lincoln, who was needed to save the nation; Obregon, who seemingly has stopped some of the bloody wounds of bleeding Mexico.

This is true in literature, religion and science as well as in war. Abuses by the Catholic church produced Martin Luther; a growing intelligence in England produced Shakespeare and Milton; a demand for speed and rapid communication produced Robert Fulton, Stephenson, Morse, Marconi, and the Wright brothers.

The crying need of this hour is somebody to lead the world from burdensome taxation for armaments. Will such a man arise? If he does who will it be? Will it be Hughes? Will it be Underwood? Will it be Kato, the gifted Japanese? Only time can tell who the big man or big men will be if they appear at all. Hughes has made a great start. Naturally being Americans, we hope the leader will be an American, but more than that we hope the conference will do that for which it was called, and we realize the super-man must soon appear.

TRAGEDY.

Down at Houston, Texas, a few days ago for "$10 and other considerations" a woman transferred ownership of her baby boy, stating that she was not able to keep it. We do not know what kind of a mother she was; we do not know of the circumstances surrounding the transfer.

Either now or later, that woman will suffer. That baby boy will grow into a youth and then into a young man. He may not know who his real mother is. All tenderness may be given him and he may receive all the care a mother could bestow. He may be happy.

But what about the mother? As the years go by, more and more will she yearn for that baby boy. He will always remain a baby to her. In her old age, she will feel the touch of the little hand on her cheek and feel the heartbeats of the little body. She will find herself waking in the night and reaching for the baby she imagines is by her side.

Of course, the woman might have been doing the best thing for the baby. She may be giving him advantages thus that she could not have given him herself. But she will suffer the agony of the damned and will wish ten million times that she had her baby boy back.

LET'S GO SLOW.

There is considerable sentiment among the teaching profession for a secretary of education in the president's cabinet. While there are some things that the secretary could do, we doubt if such an officer or department would prove worth while. In fact, we fear that it might start a tendency for the federal government to take over the control of the schools.

The News may be a bit old foggy, but we cannot agree that all rights should be taken from the individual states. Education, as we see it, is a state duty and not a duty of the nation.

Our tendency of late is to depend too much on the national government. We hope this will not become true in education. The public school should be kept under the direct control of the state.

Naturally every one wants the best for the cause of education, but some of the greatest statesmen, including ex-Vice President Marshall, agree that the national government has no administrative place in the public schools.

A year ago the Republicans were making a great to do about keeping out of European affairs and charging that the league of nations would mean the participation of this country in European questions. Now, however, with debts of many billions due the United States by European nations and individuals and with a restoration of peace and reduction of government expenditures on armament offering the only possible chance of ever collecting a dollar of this debt, it is realized that we must take a very lively interest in European affairs. We can't hold aloof as we did in the days when we owed Europe a huge sum. Any creditor is going to take more than a passing interest in his debtor's affairs when that debtor is shaky and uncertain. Hence we shall never again be in a position to boast of our "splendid isolation."

The Conference and Ourselves,
(Fort Worth Record.)

The very words with which we discuss the conference of limitation of armaments and Pacific problems reveal the extent of the modern American habit of depending on Washington for everything from weather to the regulation of train schedules. We hope that the conference will bring about a measure of disarmament, that the leaders will move toward peace, that the delegates will find some way to end the menace of wars and the burden of military establishments. We are expecting some deus ex machina at Washington to remake the world for us, to smooth out the troubles of the universe and to bring on the millennium.

All this tends to make us forget that the problems of disarmament, of abolished wars and perpetuated peace lies not in the regulation of military expenditures nor in the negotiation of international treaties, but in the hearts of men. The conference can but outline a program based upon the spirit and the will of humanity for no scheme will succeed if we, who make up the world, fail to do our part in its execution.

The conference which opened its sessions in actuality Monday will try to make a substantial reduction in the armament of nations and it will strive to make this possible by first bringing about an agreement on the problems of the Pacific which are responsible for much of the present expenditures for naval strength. How large the reduction will be is a matter the peoples themselves will determine to an extent they perhaps have hardly realized. They can do this by making their wishes manifest and by determining a willingness to eliminate the causes that make for war and strife.

For the conference itself we may well hope that it can combine with a breadth of vision and an idealism that assures high purposes and high honor, those practical abilities that shall assure the realization of the dream and the hope of the world.

On the part of the people we may ask that the extremists be ready to forego their hobbies in a united national movement to secure the best and fullest measure of advance toward disarmament and permanent peace that is possible. Let no impractical dream hinder a practical advance. Let no cynical philosophy discourage the progress toward attainable ideals.

But while we unite in prayer for the signal success of the conference let us not fail to remember that it is for us to determine the future of the world. Let us not demand disarmament, advocate the throwing away of even weapons of defense, and cry aloud for peace while we nurture within our breasts class or racial or religious or political prejudices and hatreds which are the seeds of wars and worse than wars.

When we, the people, bring into our hearts the spirit of Him who was the Prince of Peace and live the fellowship of man then shall come the time of which the angels sing: "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

Down But Never Out.

(Daily Ardmoreite)

Down but never out is the motto of the Salvation Army. Read the story of James A. Murtha. This man was a practicing lawyer in New York. He built up greater demands for money than he could earn.

Money that belonged to his clients found its way into his own expense account.

He was disbarred from practice at his home.

Stinging with disgrace he went away.

Instead of giving away to anger at his treatment he set as his goal restitution and worked until he refunded what he had wrongfully kept.

He showed up in Detroit, re-entered the practice, became a leader, rose to the top in the practice of his profession, was honored by the people with public office, acquired wealth, led a useful life and died with honors and in the trust and friendship of the people.

And that reminds us.

Some years back a merchant failed in business. Feeling a handicap that might come from starting over in the same town he moved to this city of opportunities. Worked on a salary, paid every creditor he owed when he failed, built a prosperous business, made a nice fortune and sold out to retire in the evening of life with the satisfaction that he had fought and won and had fully withheld from no man that which he was not entitled to.

Catch the moral in both instances. Both paid what they owed and built upon a foundation of honor.

COOK PUTS BUSINESS INTO HER WORK NOW

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—New York is employing business methods to solve its problems of domestic service.

The long vacant place of the old-fashioned servant is being taken by the "home assistant"—working a 48-hour week and going and coming to work each day as a stenographer or factory workers. She also buys her own meals and expects her employers to address her as "Mrs." or "Miss."

The reluctance of women since the war to engage in housework and domestic service at wages which families of moderate means can pay led a group of New York women to investigate the problem. They found that women revolted from domestic service because of the long hours of labor, lack of definition of their tasks, uncertainty of their hours of recreation, and the feeling that a certain social stigma was attached to their positions.

The result of the investigation was a determination to put housework on a business basis and make it as dignified an occupation as office or factory. The women who have been attracted to housework on the home assistant basis receive $18 a week for a 48-hour week. They get Sundays and holidays or their equivalent time off and a vacation of two weeks with pay at the end of a year's work. They are paid overtime at a specified rate.

A weekly schedule of household tasks in the employer's home is arranged that will keep the worker busy every hour she is scheduled to work. She quits at noon and goes out for her lunch. When the day's work is ended she leaves for her own home. The domestic servant has become a business woman with the same freedom and independence as the rest of her sisters in the business world.

The success of the new venture led the investigators to organize the Bureau of Household Occupations which acts as a clearing house for the home assistants and a place where both the workers and their employers can have difficulties adjusted as they may arise. Mrs. Richard Boardman, Mrs. George D. Pratt, Mrs. Henry S. Patterson and Mrs. Roberts M. Walker are among the women who are actively engaged in the work.

A day or two ago an item appeared in the News to the effect that George A. Harrison of Oklahoma City was visiting in Ada. Many people who read the item figured that the George Harrison who has been in Ada since the year and who was here when Sandy creek was dug, was the man referred to and he has been kept busy ever since explaining to people that he is still citizen of Ada and has no intention of going elsewhere.

Among other troubles he says bill collectors seeing the item have been constantly on his trail trying to get what was coming to them before he escaped. He admitted to the News that the other George Harrison may be a better man than he is, but wants it understood that he considers Ada the best town on the map and expects to stay here and wants people to know that occasionally they will find two men bearing the same name, John Smith for instance.

In China the oldest man in each block of ten houses is made a census enumerator, when a census is taken in the Celestial Republic. On a given day he makes the count and sends the list for his ten houses to the tax office.

THOUGHT MAN WAS CRAZY

"I have suffered from stomach and liver trouble for years; the last two years people have been calling me crazy. The doctors could not do anything for me. The awful bloating of gas seemed to press against my brain and I could not think clearly. Three months ago a friend advised taking May's Wonderlaid Remedy and it has worked wonders in my case. All my bloating and suffering is gone and I feel as though newly born." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. HARDING CALLS
ON CHURCH FOR FORWARD MOVE

DETROIT, Mich. Nov. 15.—If the churches fail in their high and noble task, there is small hope for civilization. President Harding told a national conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here today in a message read by Bishop William F. McDowell, of Washington, D. C. The message was read at the opening of the conference, regarded by the denomination as one of the most important in the church's history.

"Whoever holds the churches must move forward more successfully than they have done," the president's message said. "The church must not fail."

The president paid a tribute to the church for its work during the war, adding: "The world never before was in such need of right morals, right ideals, right relations among men and nations, right spirit for dealings, unparalleled conditions and religion in personal, social and public relation."

Says Mendenhall's Chill and Fever Tonic Cured Him of Malarial Fever After Doctors Failed

Albion, Illinois, August 3, 1911. J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind. Dear Sir: It is with the greatest of pleasure I highly recommend your Mendenhall's Chill and Fever Tonic. It cured me of malarial fever when the doctors could not do anything for me. I was under the doctor's care for one year and got no better; was taking your tonic for the chills and could tell that it helped me and I just quit the doctor and got well right away. About two weeks after my half brother took sick with the same fever. I recommended your tonic to him and he got a bottle of it and got well right away. I also recommended it to a boy by the name of Leo Frey and I met him in the show at Albion and the first thing he said was "One bottle cured me." ### Girl of 13 Asks for Free Transportation To See "Sick" Sister

Arch strategy of a 13 year old girl who sought free transportation from Purcell to Ada, where she declared, her sister was at the point of death, was discovered today by close co-operation of the two county Red Cross organizations and a well-laid scheme was doomed to failure.

The girl, apparently very sincere, came into the Red Cross office at Purcell this morning, according to information telephoned here, and asked for railway fare to Ada. Her sister was not expected to live, she said.

Mrs. Orville Snead, local Red Cross secretary, was informed of the plea and went at once to locate the alleged sick sister in Ada. She found her in perfect health.

"I can't understand why my baby sister said that," the woman declared when she had been informed of the attempted fraud. "I am not able to support her here and she is being well cared for by other relatives at Purcell."

SOWERS WILL REPLACE LON KUHN AS SHERIFF

OKMULGEE, Nov. 16.—Following his election today by the board of county commissioners to fill the unexpired term of Sheriff Lon Kuhn ousted from that office following conviction on charges of misconduct in office, B. F. Sowers announced that he would push his contest of the election of county commissioner Liggett of Henryetta at the election in November 1920.

A party composed of R. W. Simpson, Lee Daggs, Monroe Cotton, Bud Gregg, Gale Statler, John Chapman and Henry Stucky left this morning for a point near Antlers, Oklahoma, where they will spend a week fishing and hunting.

DOPE ON SHAWNEE GIVES CITY FANS LITTLE OF FACTS

Dope on the Shawnee high school team which comes to play Ada next Friday remained scarce here today. Fans are of the general opinion that dope this season in high school sports has taken a wayward path, judging from the manner in which teams have the edge on Ada so far as the available statistics go. Shawnee's only defeat was at the hands of Oklahoma City high school.

A summary of the season for Ada shows that two defeats have been handed the local team this year. One game, a pre-season practice encounter, was lost to Atoka high school 25-0. This game will not be included in the conference record of Ada, however, Ada high has won seven out of nine games, a record few other schools have attained.

Results for the entire season follow: Maud at Ada, 6-0; Ada at Atoka, Atoka won 25-0; Sulphur at Ada, Ada won 32-0; Purcell at Ada, Ada won 27-13; Ada at Hollendale, Ada won 39-0; Wapanucka at Ada, Ada won 14-0; Wilburton forfeited to Ada 1-0; Tishomingo Aggies lost to Ada 28-14; Ada lost to Okmulgee, 7-0; Ada won at McAlester 13-7.

The game Friday will be called at 1:30 in order to give the Shawnee tribe an opportunity to return home on the 4:34 Katy. A large attendance is expected at this game, as both teams will be about equally matched in skill, speed and weight. It will probably be one of the best games of the season, and Shawnee's first here in several years. It is understood that a large crowd of supporters from Shawnee will be in Ada to see the game.

Appreciation

On October 22 at the time of his return to Ada, Honest Bill Newton donated to the Athletic Association of the Ada high school, the total proceeds, above expenses, of both performances of the Honest Bill Shows. The total amount turned over to the Athletic Association by Mr. Newton was $326.35. On behalf of the Athletic Association, the student body and patrons of the high school, we wish to express to Mr. Newton our sincere appreciation of his interest in the Athletic Association of the high school and especially do we wish to express to him our appreciation of his financial aid, which concerns the city as well as the high school.

HOW A PIG CLUB BOY MADE GOOD

Union Valley Prize Winner Makes Interesting Report.

STONEWALL, Nov. 10.—"J. B. Hill, Ada, Okla. Dear County Agent: I should like to tell you about my success in the club work and what it has been worth to me. My success in the pig club has been made only by work and management. First I will tell you a little about when I first started to raise hogs, because the experience that I gained by raising grade hogs is what enabled me to become successful with pure bred ones.

In January, 1918, we moved from Arkansas to here. It was April before I had a chance to buy a pig. I had $5.00 and with that I bought a little stunted Duroc gilt. This gilt I loved and cared for just as if she was a real dandy. Soon she grew into an average sized scrub sow that farrowed seven pigs, five of which were dead. The other two lived about two weeks and were killed by the horses. This was rather disappointing but I was not discouraged. I bought another gilt on credit and bred her and the other sow, expecting two litters of fine pigs. When they farrowed the gilt had five and the old sow eight. They overlaid six and the wolves caught two. The rest I raised all right. With these hogs I raised a bunch of good average shoats with which I bought my purebred foundation stock.

In the spring of 1926 I decided to join the pig club. I thought that a registered pig would cost too much, so I intended to use a grade, but found out I could not compete with boys who raised pure breeds. I then traded four shoats for a registered gilt which weighed 65 pounds. She was a fine type of the Duroc-Jersey but papa said I paid too much for her. I fed her separately from the other shoats and gave her all the feed she wanted. With a good pasture and all the mill shorts and corn she could eat she grew about as fast as a pig could. I kept the lice off and her hair oiled, and when fair time came on I was ready. Papa was not interested in registered hogs but helped me take my pig to the township fair. I won first there, which encouraged me to take her to the county fair. Papa also began to feel proud of my gilt and went along with me to see how I got along at the county fair. I had already begun to not care anything for my grade pigs because the pure bred pig had grown so much faster. At the age of six months she weighed 178 pounds just in ordinary condition.

At the county fair I won first prize, which gave me a trip to the state fair at Oklahoma City. Up there I learned more about hogs and their types. Papa was also interested in pure breeds by this time. I got rid of my grades and got two registered sows and a six months old boar pig that cost me $100. He was a prize winner at the fair and was a perfect type of the Duroc. Some of my neighborhood told me that I had paid too much for the fine looking hogs and I was sure to lose on them. But in less than twelve months they opened their eyes to see some extra fine pigs and the fine prices that I was getting for them. With only three sows and a boar to care for I took good care of them. All winter long I anxiously waited for spring to see my first bunch of pure bred pigs.

On the second of March the first sow farrowed 13 of the finest pigs I nearly ever saw. I was so proud of them and so anxious to raise them all that I would not let them stay with their mother at one time for fear that she might kill one. This was one of the greatest mistakes I ever made. This was very expensive but a very dear lesson to me. It kept the sow earl and some of the pigs didn't get their share of the milk, so they died and she overlaid and killed some until I never raised but six. The lesson caused me to observe club instructions next time.

On the 12 of March my club gilt farrowed ten pigs which I was just as proud of as could be, but followed the club instructions this time as well as I knew how. These pigs were all raised lots easier and with less trouble than those that I caused to be killed. On the 17th of March the other sow farrowed twelve pigs, ten of which she raised. The sows were given a good pasture with plenty of feed and a good place to sleep. In about three weeks 26 little pigs called for their share of the feed. I answered their call with a little feed lot and some little throughs they grew with shorts and then they grew about as fast as nature would let them.

When they were four weeks of age I made my first sale. I sold two for $30. All through the summer I followed my club instructions and raised them without the least trouble. Some of the neighbors who said I would fail now have some of those pigs to keep for breeders. When fair time came again, September, 1921, I exhibited at the township and county fairs with seven head. I won $35 in premiums and sold three head, two gilts and a boar for $135. From April up to the fair I made $295 from my pigs and have my sows, boar, and a bunch of shoats and two litters of seven weeks old pigs. Now under the present conditions of everything my hogs on hand are worth at the very least $600. I am sure I could get that much and that is far below normal prices.

With a good foundation stock and feed with a little common sense mixed with it, one can realize a nice profit, even if times are hard. Papa has turned the hog management all over to me, only he is going to help me raise feed for them. I am expecting a real bunch of pigs next year, so I am now building a big hog house and making more pasture. The scrubs have been given up by papa and me forever.

President of Union Valley Boys and Girls Agricultural Clubs.

OTTAWA FARMERS ARE TALKING DAIRY CATTLE

MIAMI, Okla., Nov. 16.—Dairy cattle and how to feed them have become the principle topics for discussion at the community meetings being held by Ottawa county farmers James Lawrence county agent, Miss Grace Chadwick of Oklahoma City, is chairman of local exhibits.

Bankers throughout the county have assured the farmers their support in obtaining better dairy breeds in the county and evening meetings with the noon-day lunches at the Miami chamber of commerce were held during the past week, in order to give dairymen an opportunity to discuss their plans for the coming year.

One farmer, F. Kaness, stated that his four-acre demonstration plot of alfalfa yielded 16 tons of hay for the season. He followed instructions of the extension department, he said.

When they were four weeks of age I made my first sale. I sold two for $30. All through the summer I followed my club instructions and raised them without the least trouble. Some of the neighbors who said I would fail now have some of those pigs to keep for breeders. When fair time came again, Sep-

Record Exhibits of Growing Art To Be Shown in February

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 15.—The most comprehensive exhibit of art ever held in the state is planned for the annual convention of the Oklahoma State Teacher's Association at Oklahoma City February 9, 10, and 11, according to N. A. Nash, editor of the Oklahoma Teacher. This will be an exhibit of art growing instead of art perfected according to Mr. Nash, as it is the work of art departments of the state schools.

The exhibit, according to preliminary announcements, is to be modeled after the exhibits of the state fairs, except that the plans are to be made on a larger scale. It is being given without any idea of competition with the state fairs, it was explained, and its sole purpose is to improve art qualities in exhibits, and bring each of the teachers into closer touch with the art work in other schools.

The exhibit was suggested to the state art supervisor and will depend on interest taken already for its growth.

"It is to be merely an exchange of ideas between people having the interests of art in common as well as their other specialties in teaching," Mr. Nash said.

Miss Grace Chadwick of Oklahoma City, is chairman of local exhibits.

STONEWALL COMPANY MAKES VOLUNTARY CUT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 16.—The Stonewall Telephone company made an unusual request of the Corporation Commission today and the latter promptly granted it. The company's telephone rates for the town were reduced at the company's request, from $3 to $2.50 for business and $2 for residence to $2.50 for business and $1.50 for residence. It was explained in the application that the "people lost money by not making a cotton crop and want us to share their losses with them," and the telephone company in asking for the lower rate evidence—willingness to share the losses. The new rates will become effective Dec. 1. 11-16-1t*

CITY DADS FAVOR
ENGINEER OFFICE

New City Official Can Be Afforded By Ada Now, Say Commissioners.

A resolution adopted yesterday by the Ada Lions Club, supporting the movement of securing a city engineer, was approved Wednesday by the city commissioners, according to their opinions expressed this morning. Some of the commissioners stated that the city was in need of an engineer, that it was large enough to support one and that efforts had been made for the past two years to secure an appropriation for such an office.

"I believe the city needs and could afford an engineer," said Mayor Gary Kitchens today. I have favored the plan for the past two years, but all efforts on my part, or the part of any of the other commissioners, have failed. I hope that with support of the Lions club and other local business enterprises we will be able to get an appropriation for an engineer next year."

At present the engineering problems of the city are being handled by H. S. Darlington, Ada representative of the Johnson and Benham engineering company of Kansas City. Mr. Darlington has charge of all business of this company here. This concern has been interested in many public enterprises of Ada during the past few years. A city engineer would relieve the situation to a great extent, officials believe.

W. B. Jones, city commissioner of accounting and finance, is of the opinion that an engineer would be a good addition to the force of city officials. He would be well worth the money required, he believes. Lack of funds has been one of the main factors in preventing the addition of an engineer to the city official list, he stated.

FOOTBALL

Turner King

King is playing his best season for the Ada high school team. He has had two years experience and under the coaching of Cox is turning out in fine shape. His work at tackle has been good, and he is improving as more experience is obtained.

He will be in the fight against Shawnee Friday. King's end of the line is lighter but faster than the right end, according to the coach. King will be with the team next season.

Richard Taylor

Taylor is playing his first football. He has appeared twice this season as right end, substituting for Gregg. His showing in the two games has been good for a new man, and with more experience he promises to turn up well for this position. His judgment is also improving and is adding to his ability.

Coach Cox is losing a good prospective man for next season, as Taylor is moving to Shawnee. Taylor's best help to the team this season is the fight he has caused regulars to make to keep their jobs.

Jess Carr

Carr is one of the backfield men who will be with the team in 1922. He has been playing a good season and although his showing has not been as outstanding as some others on the backfield, he has a good prospect for a stellar season next year. Carr has been a great factor in moving the ball for good gains in all of the games this season. He plays left half, has speed, weight and a cool head. He is being coached on the best playing in tight places and on how to ward against fumbles.

Carl Kreiger

At tackle Kreiger has been making a good showing. Due to injuries he has not been able to stand out prominently this season, but his knowledge and experience in the game is one of the needed factors to make the entire machine a winner. Kreiger suffered a broken finger in the Okmulgee game and has suffered other injuries during the season. His determination has held for him position as tackle. Only in a few games have any long gains been made over his side of the line.

Charlie Gregg

Out for the past two weeks on account of illness, Gregg is again contesting for the position of right end. He has played a fair game this year and will be with the team in 1922. His lanky form has been seen racing down the field with a captured forward pass this season. Gregg is good at judging plays, blocking short end runs, and lending the needed punch for a successful play over his side of the line. His position as end has been strongly contested all season.

BULLETIN

PONCA CITY, Nov. 16.—At the hour she was to have been married, Miss Marguerite Butler, of Wynona, died of burns she received while trying on her wedding gown. The garment caught fire from a nearby stove and today, instead of the wedding ceremony, a simple funeral service was held.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 16.—Oklahoma today celebrated the anniversary of her entrance into the family of states. Fourteen years ago today, Theodore Roosevelt, then president of the United States, signed the constitution of the State of Oklahoma, thereby completing the formalities by which the territory of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory were united to form the 46th state.

Observance of the occasion was general over the state today, being participated in by schools and by a number of organizations.

THE SPELLING ARMIES.

There was nothing in the world Fred loved to do so much as to play with his soldiers. There was nothing in the world Fred hated more than spelling. There was something about spelling—he had never quite decided what it was exactly—but something which was almost cruel. Sometimes at a spelling lesson and at a reading lesson, too, he could feel his face getting hotter and hotter and he somehow had a feeling as though the very correct words which were a part of the spelling lesson took a mean glee in his unhappiness. They seemed to actually enjoy his embarrassment.

It was the same in the reading lessons. How he stumbled over those wretched words. The teacher always told him it was so easy to read if only he would look at the words and see how they were spelled.

Yes, that all sounded very simple—but it wasn't simple. No, it was hard and almost impossible, he felt. Oh, if there were no such things in the world as spelling lessons and reading lessons—what a happy place the world would be. Outside of these two places it was the easiest thing in the world to be happy.

When people said that the happiest time of a boy's life was during the time he was a lad and went to school they should have added "With the exception of the spelling and reading lessons."

It was not that Fred didn't want to read. He wanted to read many books about soldiers and sailors especially. He wanted to read stories of adventure, stories of hidden treasures, stories of brave deeds and narrow escapes. But there was such agony to be gone through before one could get to books of that sort.

"Yes," Fred told his toy soldiers, "I hate spelling and I can't read properly at all because those wretched words go to make up the stories in books."

The toy soldiers were many in numbers and their cardboard faces and figures were smart and dignified and brave in appearance, but they were quite dumb before Fred's worry.

And then suddenly Fred had a thought.

"You'll help me," he said to his cardboard soldiers. They waited in their wise way to hear further before they raised any objections. "Yes," Fred continued, "I will get much assistance from all of you."

He hurried over then to his spelling book and put it on the floor in the center of the cardboard soldiers. Then he looked at the book for a long time—then at the soldiers.

He took a blue pencil and over the breast of one cardboard soldier he wrote A. Over another he wrote E, and another I and another O and yet another U.

"I raise you to the position of general," he said to the first one. "You will be known as General A. Colonel E, Major I, Captain O and Lieutenant U are the other officers in charge of my armies. My armies are all made up of the other letters in the alphabet known as consonants."

"I will expect each of you to do your own work and to know what is expected of you and when you should report on duty. But of course, I know that I must be the leader. There must be a field marshal of my men who knows their positions and just what should be their work. I will have to know just when General A should enter the Word Field and when Colonel E should appear."

"To be sure I cannot conquer all the words at once. Little by little must the ground be won. But this will make it easiest of all—for I shall have my stalwart men to help me."

The cardboard soldiers did not smile at the praise. They were too superior for that.

But with the aid of General A and Colonel E and Captain O and Lieutenant U and the consonant armies Fred mastered word after word by learning by heart just what positions each should take when encountered by a word of the great Spelling armies.

And again and again Fred won his Spelling Word battles and now knew the joy of the word Victory and the thrill of one who has not been defeated.

And into each Word battle Fred went with this war cry on his lips:

"Spelling will not conquer those who raise their arms to oppose!"
